Usually, an off-gear or off-road gear shift is performed with a front off-road gear and a rear off-road gear, wherein the front off-road gear is the one next to the drive wheels, and the rear off-road gear is the one furthest away from the drive wheels. In addition, the off-road gear shift is provided with a rear off-road gear which is forward of the front off-road gear and usually a forward off-road gear which is adjacent to the drive wheels. The motor vehicle is usually stopped in a forward or neutral gear and is accelerated in first gear. The front off-road gear is then disengaged, so that the rear off-road gear disengages the drive wheels, and the motor vehicle is accelerated with the drive wheels of the rear off-road gear. In order to disengage the front off-road gear, the rear off-road gear is engaged, and the motor vehicle is accelerated with the drive wheels of the front off-road gear. The off-road gear shift is then completed. In order to be able to accelerate the motor vehicle without dragging the drive wheels with a locked front off-road gear, the off-road gear shift is performed with a front off-road gear which is disengaged. In such an off-road gear shift with a locked front off-road gear, then the rear off-road gear is engaged. EP 0 799 934 A1 has already disclosed a control unit for a motor vehicle, which control unit is used to perform the off-road gear shift. In this case, a forward off-road gear and a rear off-road gear are provided, each of which is assigned an electric motor. Furthermore, a control unit controls the electric motors. Hereby, the electric motor of the rear off-road gear is accelerated, and the drive wheels are disengaged from the rear off-road gear. In this way, the

" Is there a way I can remove "%1" from my string so that it only leaves what is inside my asterisk? I know how to remove everything after the first occurrence of the asterisk in the string. for example Before: (string)Demo:john After: (string)Demo A: To remove everything from the first asterisk to the end you can use my %replace_matches = map { /%([a-zA-Z_])%/ => "" } @data; I am not sure how to split an array and store the data properly so that it can be passed to the hash, so this is untested. sub split_text { my ($text, $chars) = @_; my %replace_matches = map { /%([a-zA-Z_])%/ => "" } $chars; my @split_array = split /*/, $text; return \%replace_matches, \@split_array; } A business case for a living world: Urban wastewater reuse for vegetable production on a city farm in the tropics. Commercialization of agricultural enterprises requiring in-field wastewater treatment offers a range of benefits to farmers, including improved soil, water quality and food quality. Application of such systems has so far mostly been restricted to developed countries. Here, we present the results of an assessment of a low-technology wastewater treatment system, the Urban Treatment System (UTC), for vegetable production in a peri-urban environment in Côte d'Ivoire, which has virtually no domestic water supply. The system consisted of two parallel loops of the primary and secondary system with a total area of ca. 1 ha. The primary loop was planted with a root-crop/shade-tree mixture to provide organic matter and shade for the secondary loop. Using simulated stormwater, we tested the performance of the system under different management and climatic conditions. The results show that, using tropical shade plants, the system can produce vegetables efficiently with wastewater. The only requirements in terms of chemicals or nutrients are added to the system. In addition, the system can be operated without any in-field electricity, making it suited for highly precarious urban environments with no electricity. In a comparative study, the performance of the UTC system was compared 3e33713323
