I have two different, completely unrelated web sites, let's call them foo.com and bar.com. Both sites serve the same content. This is not a single-page web application, I don't want this site to ever appear on any page of the other site. foo.com - just one page, perhaps not all of it is "content." bar.com - A proper web application. What is the best way to have a page on the foo site, let's call it site.com/foo, that displays a page on the bar site at bar.com/foo. No user should
