This code runs flawlessly on the CPU, so I'm probably not experiencing the limit due to the access pattern of the data, or the fact that the data is in cache... However, it is getting to the point where I have to restart the program as I get GPUErrors. In my case the error is 'cudaErrorInvalidValue' which appears to be related to the limit not being hit (the peak memory usage also seems to be a factor with the numbers suggesting that I'm hitting it). I'm going to try and work out the exact minimum amount of data that will cause the memory limit to be hit (and find out what is in memory currently), but in the meantime, I'd like to know if there is any way to handle this from the original code, or if there's a clever workaround I could apply. I've been unable to find anything in the docs that suggests that there is or isn't one, but it seemed useful to mention just in case. Q: How do I get the path to a file using apache spark in scala? I'm trying to parse a file which I have saved on HDFS and then I want to read this file line by line using Apache Spark in Scala. I am getting stuck here with the function `_3`.

The file I am trying to parse is in the default directory of the HDFS, so I want to traverse the path starting from the path set by `hdfs dfs -ls /user/spark/data/mass_transit_data.txt`. How can I do that? I am very new to Spark and Scala.

object Mass_Transit_Data_Analysis extends App {
  val fileName = "/user/spark/data/mass_transit_data.txt"
  val get_File_Path_From_File_Name =
    _3.get.setName(fileName)
  val conf = new SparkConf().setAppName("Spark MTD Functionality") val sc = new SparkContext(conf) val file = sc.textFile(get_File_Path_From_File_Name) file.take(10).foreach(print)
  file.take(10).foreach(print)
}
A: import spark.implicits._
val fileName = "/user/spark/data/mass_transit_data.txt"
val get_File_Path_From_File_Name =
  _3.get.setName(fileName)
val conf = new
