association I have two models.
Users and Roles. Users hasMany
Roles. In Users controller I have:

```
public function add() {
    $this->User->create(); if
($this->User->save($this->data))
{ $this->Session->setFlash(__('Us

(__('User could not be added')); }

} In Users view I have a link for Edit which takes me to edit.html.php (in edit view). Inside this page I have: `echo $this->Form->input('users.username');` This should edit the data from `$this->data`. However it is set to `$this->User->id` as the query parameter. This is why I am getting the error message. Before I had Users as a model and I had a method called edit in UserController that gave me access to the edit view of a single user. This method took User as a parameter and the association worked. Is there a way to get around this problem? EDIT: In UserController I have: function edit($id = null) { $this->User->id = $ 6d1f23a050
